

OSCN 2025 WRAPPED

2025 was an exciting year for OSCN.

Over the past year, OSCN has continued to grow and develop, both in size and in activity. The 'OSCN Wrapped' overview on the left highlights key moments, including community growth, shared interests, and the people and events behind our work.

Curious to see more highlights and take a brief look ahead at our plans of 2026? Watch our OSCN Wrapped video on LinkedIn!

7 EASY WAYS TO MAKE 2026 MORE OPEN

1. Become an OSCN member
2. Join our community meet-ups. These are planned for January 29, March 26, and May 28, 2026 (starting at 4pm, Cultuurcafé)
3. Through the OSCN website you can find members with experience with various aspects of Open Science. Consider peer-to-peer learning by contacting OSCN members with your questions about Open Science.
4. Create an ORCID to automatically link all your research output and other scholarly activities. In our next newsletter we will dive into ORCID, so stay tuned!
5. Create an OSF account to easily collaborate, preregister your research, store your data, and link to your output.
6. Share a postprint of your work in a publicly accessible repository (e.g., Open Science Framework, Zenodo, Radboud Repository).
7. Use Open Alex when searching for

LEARN MORE ABOUT DIAMOND OPEN ACCESS

6th of February 2026 in Nijmegen, the Netherlands.

Diamond Open Access - a form of publishing without fees for reader and author - is often mentioned in discussions on the future of academic publishing. While this form is promising, many scholars know little about it. Therefore, we are really excited to share the invitation to the following event with you: Towards New Horizons of Scholarly Publishing: National Meeting on the 5th and

The goal for this event is to bring researchers together who care about the future of the academic publishing system and are motivated to make a positive change. We will explore what Diamond Open Access (DOA) has to offer, which is a fully open publishing model where no fees are asked for publishing or reading. Our speakers will address a breadth of topics concerning DOA, such as: the national and European infrastructure of DOA, challenges in transitioning to such a system, starting and managing a DOA journal or flipping a journal, and many more. More details can be found on horiondiamond.nl. To register, please fill out this form. Attendance is free of charge, but the number of places is limited.

CHRISTMAS TRADITIONS

The end of the year is often a time of traditions (and a good time to start a new tradition). The members of the OSCN organizing team would love to share one of their traditions with you (hint: they are displayed on this image -->)

In this digital world, Lieke likes to keep the tradition alive of sending actual cards to friends. After all, who doesn't like a 'surprise' card in the mailbox? Tim uses the holidays to create a photo album of the past year. Something that may take a while but makes you relive all those special moments. Max recommends taking a light tour. Just drive or walk around neighborhoods that are known for their impressive display of Christmas lights. When decorating the Christmas tree, Anita always hides a pickle (not a real one, an ornament). This developed into a 'pickle search competition' that can keep guests busy for quite some time. Finally, to make a little more of the unwrapping of presents, Jenni and her family introduced a simple dice game. You can only unwrap a present if you throw a predetermined number. This builds up the excitement but is not advised if there is a whole mountain of gifts hiding under the tree :)

Whatever you plans, we wish you HAPPY HOLIDAYS, and ALL THE BEST for 2026!

NEWS FLASHES

- REMINDER: If you haven't done so yet, you can still help shape the future of academic publishing by providing input on the new national open access strategy. The survey is available until December 31, 2025.
- We already shared with you that the OS Barcamp and the OS Festival will take place in Delft next year. You can now mark your calendar for October 13-14 (with the Barcamp preceding the Festival).
